BRITISH SEAMEN ATTACK EVILS ON OCEAN LINERS

LONDON, May 23.—As a result of revelations in the Titanic disaster, an international movement looking to the betterment of conditions of employment in Mercantile marine, especially among engineers and stokers, has been undertaken by the executive council of the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union of Great Britain and Ireland. The demands of the seamen now are being formulated by a special committee and will be presented to the various British shipping companies this summer. Allied organizations in America and other countries will be asked to co-operate in the endeavor to correct the many evils of the present system of manning both passenger and freight ocean-going vessels.

The seamen have enlisted the support of Tom Mann, the labor leader recently sentenced to six months' imprisonment for inciting British troops to mutiny during the recent coal strike by exacting a promise that they would not shoot at the strikers or their sympathizers. Mann, who is regarded as the most prominent leader in the general labor movement in Great Britain despite his conviction, said today:

"The enormity of the present evils can scarcely be exaggerated. The conditions under which a large percentage of men in the holds of ocean-going ships work are disgraceful. It is a common thing for trimmers, and almost as common for firemen, when they have finished their shift, to go up on deck and lie prostrate, their last ounce of energy taken from them."

The trimmers particularly have to work amid a cloud of coal dust all the time. A sea-going engineer of 2 years experience recently told that on account of the long hours required of them, even those in responsible positions on the ship on which he served were often unable to keep their eyes open. The bald fact is that officers and more men are needed. Neither at present have sufficient time for rest and recuperation. Especially is this true of the stokers."

BABY'S BODY RECEIVES BULLETS SHOT AT MOTHER

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 23.—Mrs. D. P. Coulter, victim of an attempted assault, lives because her 9-months-old baby, lying at her breast, caught in its own little body the bullets fired at her by a "Jack, the Shooter." The baby died instantly.

This city has been terrorized lately by attempted assaults on women, committed, it is believed, by a person whom the police call "Jack, the Shooter."

Early yesterday morning the man entered Coulter residence and attacked Mrs. Coulter.

Half an hour afterward the same it is thought, entered the residence of M. J. Hankins. He fired at Mrs. Hankins and at two policemen who were attracted by her cries. The police emptied their revolvers at him as he ran, but he escaped.

Recently, supposedly the same man, has assaulted one and wounded two other women and made unsuccessful attempts to assault several others.

UNUSUAL TREAT AT THE BUTLER THEATRE TONIGHT

The Butler theater has a treat in store for its patrons tonight in some new and unique pictures among which will be shown, "Rode-gene." This remarkable story deals with the love of a woman for a man whom she had caused to be condemned to death and later saved him by the sacrifice of her own life. "The Kidnaped Husband" being given the "water cure" is the picture which will furnish the real fun for the evening, and together with "The Hobo" and "The Price of Bib Bob's Silence," go to weeks. The latter subject is alone worth many times your time to see and teaches the best moral of any picture produced by the vitagraph company.

Much interest is being manifested by the approaching opening date of Miss Eva De Vern, the Spanish singer and dancer who entertained twenty-seven hundred Shriners with her song and dance in Los Angeles during Shriners week.

PULLS ROBBER INTO RIVER AND BOTH DROWN

SPOKANE, Wash., May 31. ♦ The mystery surrounding ♦ the disappearance two weeks ♦ ago of Antone Warger, a ♦ well-to-do landscape garden- ♦ er, aged 56 years, and the ♦ later recovery of his body ♦ in Spokane river, was deepened ♦ yesterday when the body of ♦ another man was taken from ♦ Long Lake, in which the Spo- ♦ kane river flows.

The body recovered yesterday was that of a man younger than Warger and in the pockets of the clothing were bank books and deposit slips bearing the name of Warger. The body found yesterday has not been identified. Detectives are of the opinion that Warger was lured to the river bank and robbed and then engaged in a fight with his assailant and both fell in to the river and were drowned. The heads of both corpses indicated that they had been battered.

A UNIQUE CHARGE.

A justice of the peace in Missaukee county, Michigan, delivered the following charge to the jury in the trial of his first case:

"Gentlemen of the jury, charging a jury is a new business to me, as this is my first case. You have heard all the evidence as well as myself, and you have also heard what the counsel for the plaintiff has told you. If you believe it your verdict will be for the plaintiff; but if, on the other hand you believe what the counsel for the defendant has told you, your verdict will be for the defendant. But if you are like me and don't believe what either of them has said, then I'll be darned if I know what you will do. Constable, take charge of the jury."
